But doesn't Kurihara-dono like you, Yamane-dono?

I'll still wait and see...

The line won't move for a while

Romantic comedy protago-nists are always surrounded by beautiful girls, right?

The pro-tagonist is fond of himself but he is dense, doesn't pay atten-tion to anything at all and doesn't get involved with any girl.

What would happen if he existed in real life?

He'd be a piece of shit, right?

If you want to, how about you try confessing?

Th... that's impossible!

It'll be fine.

Then I'll leave you two alone, so...

IF I WANT TO CONFESS LATER

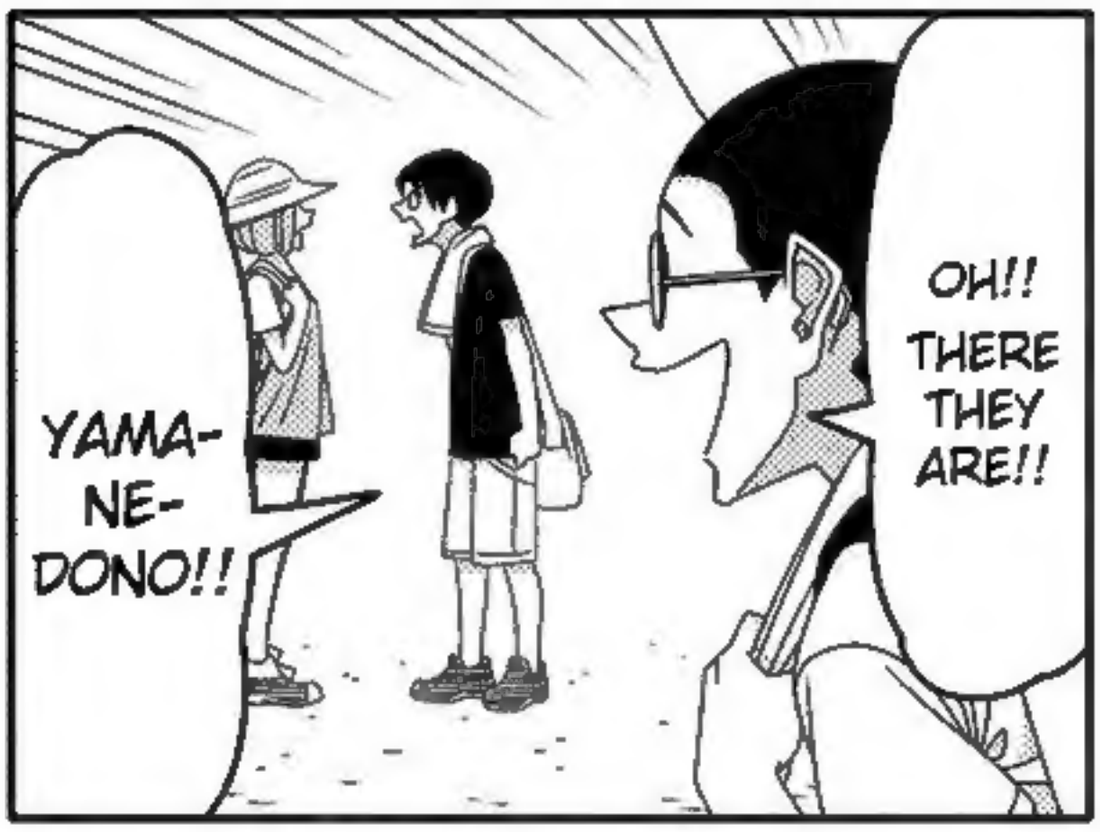
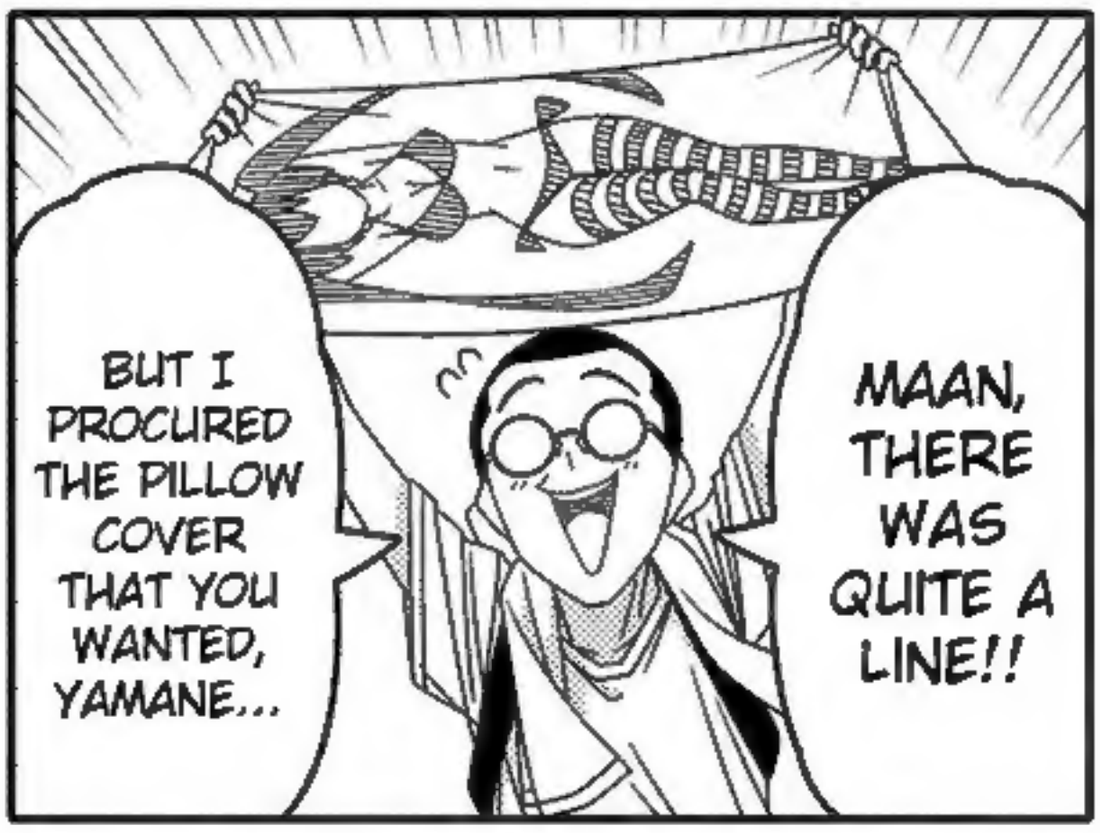
BY THE WAY, WHO KEEPS TAPPING ON MY SHOULDER?!





Afterword

Uwaa, I forgot to draw the takoyaki party chapter...
...But anyway, this has been Tsurezure Children volume 6. This volume took place in the middle of Summer, but actually I drew all of this at the start of Summer vacation, in July. While students around the world are getting excited for Summer break, I'm experiencing it vicariously through my manga characters. Well, I say that, but I never actually had such a refreshing vacation myself.

...I wonder what it's like to share your Summer break with a girlfriend...

This time, the Furuya-kun & Minagawa-san pair and the Yamane-kun & Kurihara-san pair cleared things up and started going out. Or maybe more like, "they finally got together?" I'm sure they'll face new challenges in the future, but for now, it's okay to let them savor the taste of happiness.
The problem is Motoyama-kun. I've been thinking it might be good to let him find a nice girl too, but at the same time I kinda want to have him graduate while being single. What to do...

...Yeah, single is fine!!

Next time will be part two of Summer vacation. Going to festivals, eating takoyaki, doing homework, tons of fun things are coming.
To my editor, everyone at the printing office, the bookstore employees, and to all you readers, for going steady with me all this time, I thank you from the bottom of my heart. Please take care of me next time too.
See you soon.
